What would I do if I had a spare $100,000? The mind boggles! What wouldn't I do? I could put a deposit on a house. That's very sensible – preparing for retirement and all that. I could buy shares – naaa, too risky and I don't know anything about them. I could buy bullion... recession proof my investment. I could buy a new car and take the family on a round-the-world holiday. I could renovate the house and get all new furniture. So many things I could do! Now, what am I forgetting???

I am forgetting that “there are only two places in the universe where we can deposit our treasures – in God's storehouse or in Satan's” TDG 303.

Hmmm, okay... I could help renovate a church or two here or build two or three in the mission field. I could hire a couple of Bible Workers for a year to find interests, study with them, and gain baptisms for God's kingdom. I could help underprivileged kids attend church school. I could sponsor 18 orphans for ten years. I could build 10 wells for villages in Africa. I could have the Bible translated into another language. So many things I could do... I feel better already!
